WE WANT YOU TO SUCCEED

A company's mission statement can often sound condescending and patronizing. We've all read and heard grand and glorious comments made by companies large and small about commitment to the customers... their commitment to delivering superior technologies... and their commitment to deliver the best support, each and every time. Of course, as we all know, reality is often quite different. What a company says in its mission statement can differ greatly from what it is able to provide to its customers on a daily basis.

So, instead of telling you what we hope to do for you and your hospital, let us tell you what we have done and continue to do every day.

Customer Care that exceeds your expectations.

We know that no matter how good a product might be, it still requires a dedicated team of individuals fully committed to supporting it. From the most rudimentary inquiries to complex problems, our support team is directly available to help you achieve your objectives.

Commitment to Innovation.

Technology never stands still and neither do we. From the very first product we released in 1984, to our newest Express system, our goal has been to innovate the process of timekeeping in healthcare.

We want you to succeed.

Nothing gives us more joy than to see our customers improve the communication between management and associates, and reduce the stress of timekeeping and payroll.

Description

■ CUSTOMER SUPPORT

When you have a problem, we'll work to fix it. When you need us, we'll respond - just like we've always done. And in the constantly changing healthcare environment, we're guessing that sort of long-term commitment is a welcome certainty.

■ COMMITMENT TO INNOVATION

Express is a powerful tool that represents the state of the art in healthcare timekeeping. Created in a hospital, exclusively for hospitals, it is the culmination of more than 30 years of experience and refinement.

■ WE WANT YOU TO SUCCEED

We value our clients, are humbled by their trust and are as committed to their success as we are to our own. No, we're not the biggest company - but we don't think size counts for nearly as much as creating a great product and standing squarely behind it.

“JBDev is far above and beyond that of other vendors...

In the 20-plus years that we've done business with JBDev, we have not had one problem that was not solved immediately; not one request that was not fulfilled; not one enhancement that was declined.”
